Der Hochschule Niederrhein

The current crisis has significantly changed professional and private life in recent months and has negatively affected the economy in many areas. Most headlines are negative. But we want to raise the question together: " Does this crisis offer opportunities?" This year's Sustainability Day of Hochschule Niederrhein, University of Applied Sciences is taking place as a digital lecture series. The online seminars are dedicated to the current topic Covid-19 with a special focus on sustainability.

We offer you free lectures by experts and several interactive workshops.
